To Whom it my Concern

As a major player in the Southern African carbonated soft drink (CSD) market, Twizza's success is underpinned by careful selection of and subsequent partnering with world-class equipment and technical service Suppliers. The Twizza business model is based upon vertical integration of the operations driving efficiencies and lowering cost of production. The factories employ state of the art technology across the entire supply chain, starting from preform manufacture to bottle blowing, filling and materials handling. Wrapetfill's extensive experience of these technologies, plant operations, business insights and their wide network of contacts, has resulted in significant value addition whenever contracted by Twizza. Wrapetfill was also recently employed to perform a feasibility study on an integrated PET recycling plant to the value of Euro12million and to advise on process improvement possibilities. It is foreseeable that Twizza will continue to recruit the engineering and consulting services of Wrapetfill as it drives expansion not only in South Africa but also into the neighbouring territories. As business owner I am pleased to recommend their services across their entire packaging value chain.

Kind Regards
